DAKOTA'S DISASTER.

Hundreds Made Homeless by Prairie Fires.

All Efforts to Check the Fury of the Flames in Vain.

Scenes of Ruin and Desolation in Every Direction.

Only a Few Lives Reported Lost So Far—Many Thrilling Escapes—The Property Loss Over $2,000,000.

By Telegraph to The Times

MINNEAPOLIS, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] During the past two days South Dakota and Minnesota have been swept by a series of wind storms, which caused millions of dollars of damage to property and several lives have been lost. The storm started Monday night and swept over a large area south of the Northern Pacific in Dakota, extending into the southern tiers of counties of this State. The greatest damage has not been caused by the wind alone, but in many places fires have been fanned into fury by the storms and wiped out of existence several small villages and hundreds of farmers' houses, rendering hundreds of families homeless. The towns almost completely destroyed are Volin, Olivet, Sukwana, Testerville and Mt. Vernon, and three or four other villages badly damaged.

Many head of cattle, sheep and horses have also perished. In many places the crops are covered by loose sand and dust, and will have to be replanted. Travel is suspended on some lines of road, so great was the force of the winds. The storm has abated somewhat, but the wind is yet high enough to keep the fires burning freely, and further heavy losses are almost certain. The damage in Minnesota is much less than in Dakota, as the force of the storm was pretty well spent before it reached the border. The losses in South Dakota are $2,000,000, at a low calculation.

FIRE BREAKS USELESS.

MITCHELL (Dak.), April 4.—Nobody but a man who has stood before a prairie fire and tried to stay its awful rush and roar, when it is fanned by a fresh wind, can appreciate its almost resistless force. The fires that have brought so much loss and suffering to Southeastern Dakota in the last few days were practically irresistible. The flames in some instances leaped 100 feet of plowed ground and rushed away again on their career of destruction. All ordinary precautions were in vain. The spring has been very dry and the top of the ground has been dusty of baked, and an extremely high wind prevailed during the fires. Under these conditions wherever the fire touched grass it burst out with a flash almost like powder and shot away across the prairie like an arrow, its course ever widening. To extinguish it by water, of course, was out of the question. Plowing fire-breaks was slow work, and the high wind often drove the flames across them.

BLAZING PRAIRIES.

It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the people of Mt. Vernon saw the widespreading prairie to the northwest of them break out into a blaze. The smoke was dashed into and through the town on the wings of the wind. The flames rushed after with savage fury. Mitchell was telegraphed to for help, and 100 firemen, with hooks and ladders, were sent. The entire population of Mt. Vernon and the men from Mitchell met the furious flames on the outskirts of the town and fought the flames. But many houses were burned and 100 families are homeless. The loss is $30,000. Outside of the town it is impossible yet to say what the loss is. Lonely little farmhouses scattered over the prairie are wiped out by dozens. Stories of losses of life may come later.

A COSTLY SMOKE.

HIGHMORE (Dak.), April 4.—A destructive prairie fire started on the evening of the 1st, five miles from Highmore, on the farm of James Ingram. While he was smoking his pipe, his barn caught fire and was destroyed. A fierce wind carried the fire to the prairie and the work of destruction began. Houses, barns and stock were burned. On Tuesday morning the wind reached a terrific gale. No ordinary firebreak made any resistance to the sweeping flames. At 3 p.m. the flames reached the Heights, 15 miles east of Highmore, where 18 residences in the town were destroyed.

BURNED TO DEATH.

At sundown on Tuesday, another fire started in the northern part of Hyde county, sweeping away six homes, burning to death Miss Annie Sweeny and a 5-year-old baby. Eugene Tibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Tibbs and Mr. and Mrs. Ruby are badly burned, the two former fatally. The losses will reach many thousand dollars.

A COUNTY SEAT WIPED OUT.

ABERDEEN (Dak.), April 4.—The terrible story of the destruction of Leola, the county seat of McPherson county, noted in last night's dispatches, has been brought in by couriers. Leola was a town of 300 inhabitants, and the country for miles around was well settled with industrious and thrifty people. The couriers say the surrounding country is nearly devastated. Hundreds of farmhouses are in ashes, and the carcasses of burnt stock are lying along the roadways. It is probable that one-tenth of the damage is not yet reported. The injured men, Old and Wardell, at last accounts were very low. Nothing definite is known about rebuilding. The citizens here will hold a meeting this afternoon to take measures for relief. Scores of farmers are without seed, wheat, stock or implements to commence work.

A CHAPTER OF DISASTERS.

YANKTON (Dak.), April 4.—Stories of terrible losses by the hurricanes of fire that swept over the country north of here continue to come in.

Volin village has only three buildings standing; Olivet, Hutchinson county, was burned; Puklanna was wiped out.

In Yankton county about twenty families are burned out. In the vicinity of Janesville, 12 miles north of Yankton, eight families sustained losses ranging from $1000 to $3000 each. Around Janesville the loss will foot up to $10,000. One man lost $1000 in money, which he had in his coat on a pi

INSTITUTE.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS IN THEIR FOURTH DAY.

Kindergarten Methods of Teaching Natural History—Letter and Composition Writing—The Necessity of Discipline the Noble Function of a Teacher.

The fourth day's session was as well attended and the lectures as instructive and interesting as the preceding.

Primary Section.

Mrs. Burr began her instructions yesterday morning on the subject of busy work, with a special view to serving in teaching first lessons and language.

Taking up a plant, the apple as an example, the teacher pricks the outline of the twig on bristol board, and has the child fill it in with the natural colors of worsted or silk. Then the buds, blossoms and fruit follow in consecutive order. In connection with the same work she would teach the pupils to model the same designs in clay.

Animal lessons were taken up in the same way, the teacher drawing the parts of the subject studied. The caterpillar was the specimen given. Have the parts drawn and worked in yarns the same as in the apple lessons. Keep the caterpillar and note its metamorphosis, and the date. Give similar lessons on the different forms.

On cutting pictures, she said she would have pictures brought in by the scholars; have them cut out and classified as animal, vegetable and mineral; then the former into gnawers, herbeaters, etc.; then pasted in books for reference.

The following books she recommended as being of special benefit to primary teachers: "Rousseau's Emile," "Quick's Educational Reformers," "Leonard and Gertrude," by Pastalozzi; "How Gertrude Teaches Her Children," "Work in Education," by Baroness von Vulo;" "Krusi's Work on Early Childhood" and "Barnard's Kindergarten Guide."

In regard to history, she would tell the children stories of important events, and have them reproduced from the children's memory.

After recess she devoted the period to an explanation of the Prang system of drawing.

Intermediate Section.

The morning session was opened with singing, followed by roll-call. Supt. W. S. Monroe discussed the subject of letter and composition writing.

In all such work attention should be given to neatness. Special stress was laid upon dictation exercises and reproduction work. Nearly all business forms may be taught by dictation. Reproduction work lies at the foundation of all our language work. A considerable amount of written work should be required, but it is not the duty of the teacher to correct the mistakes of each pupil. Take an error common to the class and correct it with the class.

After pupils have had training in copying, dictation and reproduction exercises, they are ready for original composition. Select familiar objects for first composition, such as leaves, flowers, common plants and animals. No textbook or grammar should be given for the first eight years of school life. The influence of false syntax is pernicious.

There is a great lack of paragraphing in letter-writing. As much attention should be paid to what children write as to how it is written.

The subject of numbers omitted from the programme of the day before was next taken up by Superintendent Monroe. The difference between teaching numbers and teaching figures was clearly shown. The fundamental principles should be taught side by side. The foundation of geometry should be laid in the primary school, by study of geometric forms.

After the recess both grammar and intermediate sections were united to hear Superintendent Monroe on the subject of "General Exercises."

Grammar Section.

Roll was called by Secretary J. N. Pemberton. The exercises were opened with a song, led by Prof. Scarritt.

Prof. C. C. Boynton discussed the subject of psychology. The work of teachers is to divert the activities of the mind. A classification of mental activities was presented upon the blackboard, under the triple division of feelings, will and intellect, each of which was treated in turn. Prof. Boynton showed a thorough understanding of his subject, as the result of long study.

Prof. M. Manly, of Santa Ana, announced upon the programme for a discussion of orthography, was unable to appear on account of trouble with his throat. In his place, Prof. Scarritt continued the practice of the musical scale commenced on the previous day. The section sang do, re, mi, fa, sol, etc., for the remainder of the time until recess, when the section was adjourned to meet with the intermediate section in Turnverein Hall.

Afternoon Session.

The session was opened with a song.

Herbert Pinckney of Pasadena presented a paper on "School Discipline." A school may be well governed and not well taught; but it cannot be well taught unless it is well governed.

Discipline is necessary to secure and maintain order in school. Method is the hinge of business, and there is no method without order and punctuality. Order is necessary, first, that the pupil may become interested in work; second, that he may have an opportunity to work, and third, that the teacher may have an opportunity to direct his work.

Order and quiet tend to thoughtfulness, and the pupil who finds his schoolmates quietly pursuing their work will catch an inspiration and gain a real desire for study. The pupil has a right to do his work with freedom and ease, but the teacher is the only one who can enforce or insure these rights, and the only one responsible, if all parties concerned are not protected in them. How often are the pupils deprived of their rights? And yet quite as often has the teacher surrendered his.

The teacher's responsibilities in matters of discipline are not confined to the care of children in the schoolroom or building. The cares of the day begin when the children leave their homes in the morning, and continue till they reach them again at night. Punctuality and regular attendance should be encouraged and insisted upon. They must be gained by an attractive force at the school and the compulsory force at home.

Not a mark or cut on the schoolhouse fences or outbuildings should escape the teacher's notice. Such things should be removed immediately, and, if possible, by the offender. Start school with the premises in good condition and keep them so.

A plan for simultaneous dismissal of classes should be arranged so as to make it possible for all to leave the building in the quickest and most convenient way possible. A special arrangement for dismissing the school quickly should be made to guard against accident from fire or other cause, and the pupils drilled in such dismissals in buildings. Ordinarily well arranged a school of 600 can be sent, without previous warning, into the yard and returned to their work within five minutes' time, each pupil taking hat and outer clothing and returning them to the cloak room before taking his seat. The plan for such drill should be similar to that of the regular dismissal to guard against confusion.

The room, where silence reigns at all times, may be in order, but it certainly is not in good order. Pupils who sit upright all day in the former without turning or moving look well, but are very uncomfortable and accomplish but little work. That condition of things in the school is the best order which will admit of doing the most and best work in the quickest time and the easiest manner.

Prof. Henry Ludlam entertained the assembly with an address upon the subject: "A Plea for Better Reading." The gentleman gracefully pictured the victories of oratorical power and the more general, but not less desirable, advantages from good reading.

Prof. Ludlam's own pleasing delivery was in itself a convincing plea that the art of reading should not be allowed to fall into neglect.

B. F. Simcoe of Tustin then read his paper, postponed from the previous day, upon the subject: "The Teacher's Responsibility." The duties of the teacher were reviewed and their important character was shown.

If we are to judge men in accordance with the importance of their chosen professions, as to their respectability, then certainly there is not a more responsible class of persons than the teachers of the public schools. Of all human beings, the one whom we most revere is the mother. Next to her, the work of character building is entrusted to the teacher. Character building is the great work of life.

Fortunate indeed are the children whose instructors are conscientious in their teaching and are blest with good Christian mothers. If the foundation work is properly done, and we follow in the footsteps of the parent in our superintendence of the further work in the superstructure, we do well.

While we impart instruction this is by no means our whole duty. Our greatest aim should be, in our teaching, to inspire the heart with worthy sentiments, and lay the foundation for future usefulness by drawing forth the activities of the mind, preparing the pupil for independent thinking.

After recess Prof. Ludlam, having been recalled to the platform, entertained the assembly with the humorous recitation: "How Uncle Daniel was Introduced to the Steamboat."

In place of Prof. Manley's address on "Morse and the Telegraph Pluck," Mr. Pinckney introduced a company of his boys from the Wilson Grammar School at Pasadena, who have been drilled for a year past as a cadet company. They were put through a brief drill upon the stage, showing excellent precision in alignment and marching. Mr. Pinckney argued in favor of military drill in all schools to the extent of accurate marching, and advised military exercises for the girls as well as the boys.

Judge Van R. Patterson of the Supreme Court being present was called upon as an ex-teacher, and the gentleman responded briefly and brightly.

Supt. Hoitt announced that Maj. George H. Bonebrake had agreed to offer $100 in three prizes for the best essays upon the history and production of this county, to be competed for by pupils of high school or grammar school course within the county. The limitation of the essays and the condition of competition will be fixed later, but the prizes will be awarded at the next meeting of the State Teachers' Association, to be held in this city.

At the close of the session members of the Teachers' Reading Circle met and elected the following gentlemen, to serve with Supt. Seaman, as a county board of directors: Dr. A. W. Plummer of Los Angeles, Mr. Grogan of Spadra, H. Pinckney of Pasadena and C. L. Ennis of Anaheim.

J. MARY ANN'S IDEA.

Mr. Bryson May Get There Conditionally.

Rather a singular conversation took place yesterday between J. Mary Ann Brooks and ex-Mayor Bryson regarding the charter case, now before the Supreme Court.

"Do you think we will get back, Mary Ann?" asked His Honor, linking his thin hand in Mary Ann's chubby arm.

"All right, all right, good people—Missourians. Keep your courage up and you will be all right, but I think you and Cooney and Kuhrts will not be given the same powers that you would have had had you refused to give up your offices," ejaculated Mary Ann at a 2:40 rate of speed.

"What's that! What's that?" excitedly asked His Honor, at the same time his left hand scratched vigorously on the back part of his head. "Won't I be Mayor in every sense of the word, when the Supreme Court knocks this abominable Republican charter out?"

"Now, now! don't get excited. Of course you will be Mayor, but not in everysense of the word. There are two or three senses that you will have nothing to do with, for the reason that you gave up too soon. You will be allowed to sign ordinances and things of that kind, but Mayor Hazard will be the figurehead, and will receive the guests of the city and all that kind of thing. Of course I wouldn't care the snap of my finger for that, because you will have to sign all the documents."

"Well, that is strange, but I guess I'll have to stand it if the Supreme Court says so," and His Honor walked off in a sad frame of mind. As soon as his back was turned Mary Ann winked at a chum, and the two went off and drank His Honor's health.

Revival Meetings.

Rev. O. B. Read, the evangelist, who is conducting a series of meetings at the First Baptist church, corner of Fort and Sixth streets, is a speaker of marked power and earnestness. He makes no attempt at oratorical display, his sermons consisting largely of expository Bible readings, but his deep earnestness and remarkable familiarity with the scriptures, render them very interesting and instructive. As he becomes known his congregation are increasing in numbers, and several persons have already professed. The subject of the Bible reading this afternoon will be "How to Use the Bible in Personal Work with the Unconverted."

The sermons are held daily at 3 and 7:30 o'clock p.m.

CAUGHT.

ROSE, THE CONFIDENCE SHARP, CONVICTS HIMSELF.

Supplying the Missing Link of Evidence That Was Necessary to Connect Him With Hood and the Contraband Telegram—Held to Answer.

The now noted bunco case came to a finish yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rose and Hood being held on the misdemeanor charge of conspiring to cheat Hon. J. B. Haskins.

The events of the day were dramatic in the extreme. Rose, the inimitable and facetious, contributed largely to the result by his testimony yesterday, which knowledge caused him to metaphorically tear his hair and gnash his teeth.

When the court adjourned Wednesday night White, the co-defendant, was discharged; and it was in a quite jubilant frame of mind that Rose and Hood contemplated a similar order in their cases yesterday. But alas for their hopes, Rose went on the stand again!

Before the examination was resumed yesterday morning Deputy District Attorney Hardesty addressed the court and moved that the second charge against Rose, Hood and White be dismissed. This was done. This charge, upon which the defendants have not yet been examined, is the felony charge, alleging that they won fraudulently at play from Judge Haskins. The motive of the District Attorney was at once seen by his filing another complaint, identical with the former, except that in place of White John Doe figures with Rose and Hood in the matter. John Doe, who is supposed to be Sparks, mentioned by Rose as having rented his room, has not yet been arrested, and the District Attorney's office maintains strict secrecy as to his identity. This preliminary matter settled, the examination proceeded.

Attorney Payton put Rose on the stand for redirect examination. He had been shown a ledger the day before, which was found in his room in the Crystal Palace, where Judge Haskins was buncoed. This ledger the detectives believed to be an account-book kept by Rose to keep track of his transactions with the gang. But in his testimony he denied having any knowledge of the book. The first question put by Attorney Payton to his witness was in regard to this book. He said that the witness had testified that he knew nothing about it, and that now he desired to qualify that statement.

Mr. Rose then laughed, and with the utmost indifference said that he had been thinking about his testimony, and that he had noticed an old book lying around in his office. It was there when he first moved into the rooms, and must have been left by the former tenant. He did not know what it was for. He had never used the book, and it had knocked about the office. If he had moved out he would have left the book there. He identified the book as the one found in his room.

Mr. Hardesty's eyes gleamed as he squared himself to cross-examine Rose, and the dramatic moment of the examination had arrived.

"Do you mean to say, Mr. Rose, that you never used that book?"

"No, sir," replied Mr. Rose with a defiant expression.

"You do not know what it was used for?"

"No, sir. The entries were all made in it before I saw it."

"Did you never make any entries in it, Mr. Rose?"

Rose assumed an air of deep thought; put his hand over his face, pulled his mustache, and then with a careless laugh said: "Oh, yes, I believe I did make some entries in it."

"What were they, Mr. Rose?"

"Why they were jotted down at odd times, just to kill time."

"Point them out, Mr. Rose."

Rose then turned to the pages in the ledger where numerous entries were made, among them being the one in the name of Bingham, which name was on the telegram which Hood had in his possession when arrested, and which he tried to throw away.

"I made these entries," he said. "They don't mean anything. They were just jotted down," laughing with an affected carelessness.

"That is all, Mr. Rose."

The District Attorney had secured his missing link in the chain of evidence connecting Rose with Hood, the former having denied and protested that he never had anything to do with Hood. Mr. Hardesty produced the telegram found on Hood, which was addressed to Bingham, Chicago, directing him to draw checks on Judge Haskins's bank in New York city, for the amounts won from him in the bunco game, $500, $2000 and $2500. He showed it to Rose, who denied that he ever saw it before.

Then the experts were put on the stand. J. M. Elliott, F. E. Gibson and F. B. Fanning, who examined the handwriting in the telegram and the entries in the ledger admitted by Rose, swore positively that they were identically the same handwriting. The demeanor of both Rose and Hood during this testimony was very different from that which they had maintained up to that time. Their jaunty carelessness disappeared, and they seemed to act as if a mule had kicked them. In fact, they became nervous, and Rose incessantly pulled at his fierce mustache. The defense closed, and short arguments were made.

Mr. Payton spoke in sarcastic terms of the avalanche of complaints which had been filed in the case, and characterized it as a most remarkable procedure, in which men were kept on examination for nine days, and in which examination, and others yet to come, 13 different complaints had been filed. He made as good a plea for his clients as possible, and claimed that they were innocent of the crime with which they were charged.

Mr. Hardesty had very little to say about the 13 complaints, but devoted himself principally to the fact that out of his own mouth Rose had convicted himself. He thought he had protested too much, and had been caught in the net his own words had weaved about him. He said that up to the time Rose went on the stand at the close, he felt as if it would be hard to prove his connection with the case, but that testimony settled it, and he had nothing more to say.

Justice Lockwood, in announcing his decision, said that up to the time Rose admitted the entries in the ledger, he had some doubts about the case, but that removed any cloud from his mind, and he would hold the defendants to answer. A sigh of relief went up at the termination of the examination, and Judge Haskins and Detective Glass were observed to look gratified at the result.

The Court announced that the same bond under which the defendants were now placed would do until this morning, when they would have to give new bonds for $2000 each.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning the examination of Rose and Hood on the felony charge will be commenced.

HOOD'S LITTLE GAME.

In connection with the assumption by Hood of the name of ex-Postmaster-General James's son, a telegram was received by Judge J. B. Haskins yesterday from that gentleman. It was as follows:

NEW YORK, April 4, 1889.

Hon. John B. Haskins, Los Angeles: Only son, Charles Francis James, is here. Prosecute swindling impostor.

THOS. L. JAMES.

It was the general opinion among those interested in watching the progress of the case that Rose has tumbled in a snare made by himself. He denied everything, and denied too much, which Judge Haskins remarked, is a common failing among otherwise sharp swindlers. In trying to escape from a suspicion of perjury in denying that he knew anything about the ledger, he fell into the trap that led to his undoing.

MRS. LIVERMORE.

At Armory Hall Last evening. She Discusses Superfluous Women.

About 1500 people gathered at Armory Hall last night to hear Mrs. Mary A. Livermore lecture on her pet subject, "Superfluous Women."

This is the second lecture that Mrs. Livermore has delivered in this city since her arrival and she has become a great favorite with Los Angeles audiences. The audience was composed principally of ladies.

The lecturer appeared on the platform at 8:15, and about a dozen ladies joined her, taking seats on the stage. The entertainment was opened by singing. On stepping to the front of the platform Mrs. Livermore announced that her lecture would be an attempt to show that the present age is an age of reformatory measures. The whole desire of the thinking men and women of today is to reform criminals instead of punishing them, as was the case a few years ago. This is an age of humaneness, and even the brute creation is beginning to feel the benefits of this humane spirit. It is nothing but right that women should join in this reform movement when it is remembered that even the heathen nations are awaking to this progressive movement.

The lady then discussed the fact that hundreds of years ago women were nothing better than slaves led about by a chain.

In the middle ages it was claimed that women should not be educated, and when the church attempted to establish schools the teachers were stoned.

The lady then related a great deal of history, going to show that man's effort has always been to keep woman down, on the ground that she is "the weaker vessel." She adverted to the editors of the daily press and gave them a scoring for advising men and women to marry before they are both good, honest people.

There are 106 boys to every 100 girls born into the world every year. This is a happy provision of Nature, for it is just as necessary for people to marry as it is for them to be born. If you take women away, and put a large body of men together, you will soon find that they have sunk into the lowest depths of sin.

If you know how it affects women when they are herded together you will have to go to Egypt, and you will find that they have sunk as low as possible. There cannot be a home without women. A woman will

DRESS AND UNDRESS.

MRS. ANNA JENNESS MILLER ON THE PLATFORM.

Discusses the One and Exemplifies the Other—A Very Pretty Woman, Whichever Way You Take Her—A "Times" Reporter Sees it All.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the murmur of many voices was heard in the Los Angeles Theater. A TIMES reporter ventering in, sank into a seat, the only man among a thousand women, all assembled to hear Mrs. Jenness Miller lecture on dress reform, and, confidentially, to see her "loves of dresses." Every seat in the house was occupied. Never has such an assemblage of women been observed in Los Angeles. The sound of their voices—for, strange to say, they were talking—was like that of a big house full of birds; to be more exact, a house full of big birds of elegant plumage. It went on like the brook, but died away in a staccato movement when the manager stepped in front of the curtain. She said Mrs. Miller's trunk, with the costumes, was traveling about the city in an irresponsible manner. That they were chasing it, and hoped it would turn up at the proper time, but Mrs. Miller would be obliged to make her first appearance in her traveling dress.

After this announcement the subdued chorus began again. The audience was audibly disappointed, and everybody wondered what Mrs. Miller would do. She, however, is a woman who rises to the occasion, and the curtain went up. After a brief introduction by the manager, a lady very neatly attired, graceful and with a bright countenance, advanced and in a tuneful voice remarked:

"As usual, ladies, my annoyance is caused by a man. My trunk is not here, and there is a man at the bottom of it."

This sally caused a laugh, and Mrs. Miller without further delay began her lecture. She referred to the story of Adam and Eve to begin with, characterizing it as the most beautiful story that has ever been imagined, and drew a moral from the eating of the fruit of the tree of knowledge by our first parents, dating the misfortunes entailed upon woman and her progeny from the apple episode. The lecturer, in clear sentences and charming manner, after dropping the Garden of Eden, said that disobedience to the natural laws of our being caused the suffering with which so many of our modern women are afflicted. She thought that women had become so set in the ways of fashionable attire that many would consider hers a thankless task to try to change their views. But as a set-off to that said that the temerity with which most women outraged the laws of nature, made it impossible for her to keep still. Women wear such burdens on their backs that the only hope of future generations was in a radical change. The mothers must throw off the yoke. She thought the time ripe for the changes which she proposed. The only difficulty which she found in talking about it was in the sentiment of modesty as it existed, a sentiment so unique that she never knew how far to use the plain words of our mother tongue. For instance, did the great author of our being intend that man only was to have legs? From the manner in which that term was tabooed with reference to woman, it would seem that such was the idea, but she believed if that is the idea of the Creator He would have provided some other means of locomotion for women. Mrs. Miller confessed that the very nature of her lecture necessitates particularizing, and in a very dainty and refined manner she pursued the practical portion of her remarks.

"What are the principal objections to woman's dress?" she asked, and continued, "I dare say there are many of you who can answer that better than I now. Think how I must have felt to be comfortable for four years. That is the time I have been wearing these garments. Dress has two objects, comfort and harmony. Woman's ultra fashionable dress divorces the upper and lower parts of the body. Just at this point, [indicating the waist] lie the important organs of the body, where tight lacing distorts them, and disarranges their functions. I never wore corsets but one week in my life, and would have been dead if I had. It is development and not artificial support which women want. But I am a most conservative radical. I knew that my starting point must be from the artistic idea in dress, and my reforms consist of the combination of grace and comfort. Woman has a tremendous endurance at this point [again indicating the waist]. A man in woman's dress would be a gibbering idiot in a short time. They are not strong like we are. Let us get rid of ligatures and bands, and women will be all right. Dress should follow the natural line of the body. Why not? Why should not conformity to the natural human figure be right? There is nothing conspicuous in my dress, and I have followed out my ideas. I have no corsets, and the various garments of my system I am wearing now. My system applies more to the undergarments than the outer. The time has not yet come to make any radical change in the outside dress. It is steel on which I make war; for artistic reasons. I don't speak of the ills that come from it. I know that ladies will endure martyrdom if they look nice. But corset-steel is incorrect. That garment which is known as the bifurcated skirt I had great difficulty in naming, but I finally settled upon 'leg-let,' although one gentleman suggested that I call it an abreviated skirt."

Mrs. Miller then proceeded to demonstrate to the audience, in a way that convulsed it, how corsets distorted the figure, making a fullness where it ought not to be, flat chests, and destroyed the line of beauty in the back, so that a hump had to be put on to fill out where nature does not need any if let alone. This portion of the lecture is indescribable, as the lecturer illustrated with assumptions of the different characters of which she spoke. She moved her arms about in a way that was maddening to those in her audience who could scarcely raise theirs to their heads owing to their tight dresses. She described the garments in her system, and by this time her trunk having been rescued from the culprit man who had been driving about with it, introduced a number of costumes, which called forth many admiring expressions from those present.

As Mrs. Miller appeared in costume after costume, all pretty, all graceful, better still, all possessing that thing known as style—without which no dress can hope to gain favor—the desire to know what was underneath these dresses grew and prevailed, and the last half hour of the lecture was the popular one. Mrs. Miller then gracefully requested the men in the audience to retire, but a TIMES reporter succeeded in remaining.

The lecturer then came on the stage, draped Hamlet-wise in an inky cloak, which she dropped at her feet, revealing a modest vision in ecru and blue. The famous "divided skirt" proved to be of soft ecru pongee, gathered to a well-fitting yoke at the waist, separated into little skirts by a central seam. Under this is worn a garment of pongee like any "union suit" of underwear, and to this is added flannels to suit the wearer's circulation or taste. The lecturer turned up the "leg-let" so as to show some pretty flounces.

Mrs. Miller had been describing the garments for a few minutes, seemingly intent upon her lecture alone, when at the middle entrance door the face of a courageous specimen of the genus homo appeared like a full moon. With a gesture of timidity, as when a mouse is discovered, the lecturer said, "Put that man out," and as he disappeared she sweetly resumed her descriptions.

As any sensible woman must, Mrs. Miller heartily disapproves of the garter suspended from the hips or even from the shoulder, and prefers the simple band below the knee, of some light elastic metal.

Her whole system of dress reform is so practical, so simple, so easy to adopt that it is to be feared it will suffer from that very reason. Fashion has so long demanded miracles from women, that they may well hesitate at the perfect simplicity of this new reform. Of greater value, however, than any dress, is the lesson of a proper carriage of the body, which Mrs. Miller teaches and illustrates, but which is made largely impossible by the modern dress. All women cannot be of the almost ideal height and weight that distinguish Mrs. Miller, but all, large or small, may carry themselves according to healthful and natural laws, and can then afford to wear a dress that follows, as does this of Mrs. Miller's, the natural and beautiful lines of the body; strong, lovely, healthful, the rightful inheritance of a creature who was intended "to warn, to comfort, to command."

The crowded house was excellent evidence of the interest taken in this new idea, and the idea may be expected to take practical shape at once, as the patterns for the proper dress will be supplied here at 201 South Spring street immediately.

Physical Development of Women.

Mrs. E. A. Pingree has located in room 71, Wilson block, No. 6 South Spring street, where she devotes herself to the physical development of women. Mrs. Pingree is herself an example of good health and robust physique, as a result of careful training devised by herself. Mrs. Pingree gives private instruction. She can be found at her office during business hours.

POOR VERONA.

She Writes a Pitiful Letter Full of Vagaries.

To show how utterly unhinged is the mind of Verona Baldwin, who is now confined in the County Jail, awaiting examination for insanity, the following letter, which she handed to one of the attachés of the jail yesterday is reproduced:

"I hope I did not insult you by the note I wrote you last. I did not know then what it meant. This is the millennium and have have seen God. We are of the seven tribes of Israel. You must read Revelations of the Bible. Then you will understand me. I have been talking with other planets in other worlds. I have been controlled by my ancestors. I did not know before who I was. I am of the Blood royal, and I have worn the seven crowns with the swords turned turned down, and tasted the wormwood that is now the honey of the New Jerusalem."

Miss Baldwin was very much worse yesterday, and was at times so violent and raised such a disturbance that she could be heard outside the jail, and quite a number of persons were attracted by the noise. Last evening, when the TIMES reporter visited the jail, she was found kneeling in her cell, and the deputies stated that she had been so engaged during most of the time. She did not appear to recognize anyone, and, to all appearances, was beyond all hope. Mrs. Watson of the Girls' Home swore out a complaint against her yesterday, and she will probably be brought before one of the Superior Judges today for examination, which will, in all likelihood, result in her commitment to the asylum at Stockton or Napa.

CRUELTY TO A CHILD.

A Shocking Case Reported from San Bernardino.

Officer Wright, of the Humane Society, yesterday received a letter from a prominent citizen of San Bernardino, asking if there is a branch of the society there, and if so who is the chief officer. The gentleman says that he has learned of a most aggravated case of cruelty to a child, that should be looked into at once. The facts of the case are to the effect that a woman there, who has married a second time, has a little girl 3 years old by her first husband, and this child No. 2 seems to hate and has got the mother to hate her also, so that she beats the little one almost to death. A day or two ago she beat the little girl over two hours, and when she cried the mother held her hand on the child's mouth and smothered her cries, until at last a fall was heard, when the cries of the little one suddenly ceased, and nothing has been seen or heard of her since. It is believed that something has befallen the child, and much indignation exists among the neighbors. Officer Wright will probably go up to San Bernardino today, or send some one to investigate the case.

A BOLD BANK ROBBERY

That Figured in an April Fool Joke.

"Madam," remarked a well-known business man to a handsome lady who calls her husband Major, "I could have made a man of your husband if he had only possessed the courage to stick to his contract and set the giant powder. Today all three of us might have been worth a million dollars each, for the bank contained $3,000,000 yesterday and everything was fixed."

"What do you mean, sir?" asked the lady, flushing up.

"Is it possible that you don't know what has been going on during the past two months?"

"I assure you that your strange words are all Greek to me."

"If that is the case I had better have kept my mouth shut."

"I insist on knowing everything, for if my husband has been engaged in any dark deeds I wish to be enlightened on the subject at once."

"I shall never forgive myself for introducing this subject, but as I have gone so far I will explain matters to the best of my ability. About two months ago your husband, the Chief of Police and myself entered into an agreement to capture the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank.

"We secured a basement room across the street from the bank and began the work of tunneling across the street. The work progressed very slowly, but at the end of six weeks we had reached a point directly under the big vault. The tunnel is barely large enough for a man to crawl through, but we could not make it larger for the reason that we could not dispose of the dirt without attracting the attention of the public. We were not afraid of the officers, for our partner, the Chief of Police, had agreed to see that the authorities did not molest us. The agreement between us was that your husband, who knows a good deal about mining, was to superintend the tunneling, the Chief was to keep the officers away and I was to cart the gold to a hiding-place.

"Well, all of our arrangements were completed day before yesterday, and last night was the time fixed for the blowing-up process. We met in our gloomy little basement at midnight and prepared to make the biggest haul ever made. I noticed that your husband was acting a little funny, and when the moment arrived for him to crawl through the tunnel he flatly refused to move, and when I asked him what he meant, he said he was too fat to crawl through the hole, and we could not get him to move. This fell like a wet blanket on us, and we gave up the whole thing."

The lady was terribly put out about the affair, and as soon as she found her husband she told him what she had heard, and with tears in her eyes she begged him to tell her that it was all a lie.

"My dear," said the smiling husband, "you have been imposed upon. This is the 1st of April, and Mr. Black has played an April-fool joke on you."

The next time the lady meets that joker he will most likely get a piece of her tongue.

Carnisheed Their Warrants.

The Tax Collector yesterday garnisheed all the warrants of the men recently removed from the police force for their poll tax. Quite a number of them were short of funds, and did not have the necessary $2, when ex-Detective Metzler advanced about fifteen of them the money, which was paid, and their warrants were delivered to them. The men remaining on the force were not interfered with, the Collector evidently thinking he had a sure thing in their cases.

It Was the Cat.

Dr. Amos W. Plummer yesterday afternoon delivered before the pupils of the the Los Angeles University a lecture on physiology. The lecture was given under the auspices of the class, which has just finished the course in physiology, under its instructor, Prof. Lord. Dr. Plummer illustrated his lecture by dissecting a cat, thereby showing the different and relative constructions of the muscles and bones.

AN UGLY DISCOVERY.

A Report That Should Be Read.

"A recent analyzation in Philadelphia by a celebrated chemist of ten popular brands of sarsaparilla discloses the astonishing fact that these ten samples of blood purifiers (?) contained in the aggregate sixteen different minerals, eleven of which were active poisons. Iodide of potash was discovered in every sample, mercury was found in all but two, while arsenic existed in six of the ten brands. Not one brand was the pure article."

A reporter took the above clipping to E. W. Joy, the manufacturer of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Mr. Joy exhibited no surprise. He said druggists knew it. He said he long ago saw the crying need for a safe and absolutely pure vegetable preparation of Sarsaparilla, hence his was named Joy's vegetable sarsaparilla because it contained nothing but pure syrup of sarsaparilla, combined with the pure juices of California's vegetable alteratives. Unlike potash sarsaparillas, it does not force impurities through the skin but stimulates the various secretive organs thereby correcting functional derangement and eliminating all impurities through the natural channels.—San Francisco Examiner

Old Shoes.

How much a man is like old shoes!
For instance, both a soul may lose.
Both have been tanned, both are made tight
By cobblers. Both get left and right.
Both need a mate to be complete,
And both are made to go on feet.
They both need heating; oft are sold,
And both in time turn all to mold.
With shoes the last is first; with men
The first shall be the last, and when
The shoes wear out they're mended new.
When men wear out they're men dead, too.
They both are trod upon, and both
Will tread on others, nothing loth.
Both have their toes and both inclines.
When polished, in the world to shine;
And both peg out, and would you choose
To be a man, or be his shoes?
In case your shoes are very old

A POINTER.

Take the Los Angeles and Vernon street cars at any point near First street, on Los Angeles or San Pedro streets. Thirty minutes' ride south will take you to the

NADEAU ORANGE TRACT,

On Central ave., near Jefferson st.

There you will find the finest residence tract in the city for the money. It lies high and dry on a principal thoroughfare, and is covered with orange, apple and other fruit trees in good bearing condition. $60,000 worth of lots sold in the last 15 months, in spite of dull times and "busted boom." Fifty families are now living on the tract, and new houses are going up every week. PRICES are lower than the lowest. Just think of it! A large lot 50x125 feet, close to street cars, for $290, $300, $440 according to location. TERMS the easiest known. The first payment is only $25, and after that the entire balance is made payable at $10 per month, interest added.

HOUSES already built on some of the lots are for sale at cost. You can buy a lot with a new three-room house, neatly painted and papered, for $950 to $700. Make a payment as large as you can when papers are made out, and pay balance at $15 per month with interest. WATER FREE. We have a large number of bored wells, with pumps complete, scattered through the tract located on lots reserved from sale. We guarantee you pure water FREE until your lot is paid up, if contract is complied with.

Why, then, pay rent? The rent you pay for a small house will in a short time buy you a home of your own. If you are a single man, these monthly payments will enable you to save money and perhaps teach you economy and industrious habits.

ATTENTION!

Cheap Land -:- Good Land.

Dr. E. T. Barber of Lancaster, Antelope Valley, Los Angeles county, Cal., offers 30,000 acres of land for sale, in tracts of 20 acres and upward, at $5 to 50 per acre, with liberal terms and title guaranteed.

This valley has raised the premium wheat of the world; sugar beets at the rate of 15 tons to the acre; barley hay, three tons; eight crops of alfalfa in one year; parsnips seven inches in diameter, and is competent to compete with Spain for raisins, and France for champagne.

All this land offered can be covered with mountain water, and has good surface and artesian water, and much of it has a subsoil irrigation.

The railroad facilities are good; the Southern Pacific Railroad now crosses it, and three other great railroads are expected to do so in the near future.

Climate good—no cyclones, blizzards, fogs or malaria.

Antelope Valley is the hope of the poor, a boon to men of moderate means, and a bonanza to keen-sighted business men.

OUR PREMIUM HIGH-ARM SEWING-MACHINE!

TESTIMONIALS:

Following are letters received by the Times-Mirror Company from subscribers who have purchased the Premium Sewing-machine through us:

"GIVING PERFECT SATISFACTION."

J. W. Ross, Pasadena, writes: The Times-Mirror Sewing-machine is giving perfect satisfaction; in my opinion it is as good as any $85 machine. I have not done any heavy work on it yet, but I think it will do it all right.

"HIGHLY PLEASED WITH IT."

Mrs. Edwin Brown, Los Angeles: In reply to yours of 28th would state that I am highly pleased with the Premium Sewing-machine I received with the MIRROR. Gives every satisfaction; so easy to learn how to manage; does such excellent work; in fact cannot praise it too much, and would not take twice the amount it cost me.

"THE MORE WE USE IT THE BETTER WE LIKE IT."

Mrs. S. A. Ware, Pasadena: I have used your sewing-machine since last July. The more we use it the better we like it. On fine and heavy work it is splendid. We have tried the attachment. In fact it goes ahead of your advertisement so far.

"LIKE IT BETTER THAN THE $125 SINGER."

Joseph Wilson, Los Angeles: The machine gives entire satisfaction. My wife likes it better than the $125 Singer that it has replaced.

"GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION."

S. W. True, East Los Angeles: We have the High-Arm Machine and use it for light family sewing. It gives good satisfaction.

"RUNS SMOOTH—AND SEWS EVERYTHING BUT BUTTONS."

William P. Wade, Los Angeles: The report of the chief engineer of the sewing department of my domestic establishment is to the effect that the sewing-machine lately furnished by you for $22 arrived in good order and in due time, and has given entire satisfaction. It runs lightly and with very little noise and performs to perfection all kinds of sewing work with the exception of buttonholes. [When the freight is paid to Los Angeles by the Times-Mirror Company the price is $35.50.]

"TRIED 'EM ALL AND LIKES THIS MIRROR-MADE CHINE BEST."

William L. Price, 218 Temple street, Los Angeles: My wife tried several $85 machines, and chose the Mirror Premium Sewing-machine as an equal to the best in the market, for one-fourth of the money. It is perfect in all particulars, and admired by all who see it. My wife has been using it several months, and we both cheerfully recommend it to the public as represented.

"TAKES IN WORKMANSHIP AND MATERIAL ALL THE HIGH-PRICED ARTICLE."

C. H. Spencer, Los Angeles: Having sold hundreds of the Remington Sewing-machines for $65, which you are now offering with the [WEEKLY MIRROR at $22, $23.50 when freight is paid to Los Angeles], I wish to say that the machine you offer is identically the same as the high-priced article, both as to material, workmanship and capacity. Being a resident here and an experienced sewing-machine man, I will take pleasure in instructing any one in working the machine, in this place or vicinity.

"IS DELIGHTED WITH IT."

Mrs. J. W. Stringfield, Pomona: The High-arm Mirror Sewing-machine came in good time, in excellent condition, without scratch or blemish, and I am delighted with it. We believe the machine is all that you recommend it to be, and think it a rare opportunity for those who may want a machine to get a first-class one cheap.

"PERFECT IN EVERY RESPECT."

Mrs. E. C. Cranston, Norwalk: The High-arm Premium Machine arrived in prime condition, and is perfect in every respect. Freight $2.50, with first cost added, making $22.50 for as good a machine as is usually sold through agents for $75. Well pleased. [$25.50 when freight is paid to Los Angeles.]

"VERY MUCH PLEASED WITH IT."

Mrs. Martha Allisod, Downey: I am very

THIS White Cap business is bad enough when they confine their operations to men who have committed some crime which the law cannot reach, but when they go so far as to mutilate inoffensive dumb animals, in order to obtain revenge on the owners, as they recently did in Iowa, it is time that the public aided the authorities to make a very severe example of these miscreants.

IT is really wonderful that people care to continue to live in Dakota and Minnesota, considering the terrible hardships and dangers which they are called upon to endure. Not only frightful cold, tornadoes and cyclones, but now they have been swept by a combination of fire and hurricane, which has done $2,000,000 worth of damage in South Dakota alone. Surely five acres in Southern California are preferable to a section in such a country as that!

RAIDING TITLES.

THE TIMES has received the following contribution on an important subject:

STARTLING INFORMATION, IF TRUE.

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I am informed that men are already going out to take Government claims on the Las Virgenes ranch, claiming it (the land) belongs to the Government and is subject to private entry under the late decision of the United States Supreme Court, and that appears to be a correct interpretation. The court says this commission was especially appointed by Congress to pass on all Spanish and Mexican grants; to find out all lands that were legally granted, and all lands—whether granted or not—not passed on and confirmed as legally granted by that commission was, and is, Government land. In other words, if one had complied with all the Government requirements of Spain or Mexico, and had a lawful grant to land from either country, it had to be submitted to this commission and be confirmed by them a "lawful grant," and all holding grants not so confirmed by that commission have no legal title, and all such lands belong to "Uncle Sam."

This commission was appointed by Congress March 3, 1851, but as to the length of time it had to do this work I do not know.

From a copy of the records I find the "city lands of Los Angeles," amounting to 17,179 acres, were never confirmed, and if that be true, are we all living on Government land?

If this is a true copy of the land records of this county, I find a number of the grants in Los Angeles county were never confirmed. Among them I find the "Los Palos Verdes," 31,629 acres; "San José, and Ad.," 26,770 acres; "El Escorpion," 1109 acres; "Paso de Bartolo," 875 acres, and a number of other small grants.

The first grant named is a very large one, and on it is the city of San Pedro; and the San José and its addition of 4430 acres is almost as large, and on it we find the city of Pomona, Lordsburg and Claremont.

What a terrible fix we would be in if the grants named are Government lands and liable to be "jumped" and filed on by actual settlers!

The Court virtually says all such lands are Government lands, and if so are they subject to entry?

I am told there is a law in this State giving one a title to land if he have undisputed possession for five years; but would the United States give up or surrender its title to land in that manner—land that has never been paid for? I think if there is such a "five-year-law" it is a vicious law; for one might own land or a valuable lot and be away over five years (and keep taxes paid), and then find some one had had peaceable possession all these years, and hence owned the land. I would say such a law would not hold water in the United States Supreme Court.

If these grants are void and the lands declared Government lands, could not the city, and these towns (Pomona and San Pedro), have some one "enter the lands in trust," and give deeds to the "legal" owners? The trouble would be to know the rightful owners in many cases.

If these lands are subject to private entry why go to the new El Dorado—Oklahoma?

V. M. CHAPLIN.

The squatters are too fast if they have commenced "jumping" any lands under the recent decision of the Supreme Court. Even if the decision should have the effect claimed, settlers would have to await the action of the Interior Department in declaring the lands in question Government lands—and prescribing how and when they could be entered. We advise all concerned to go slow in the movement to disturb titles.

We cannot believe that the Supreme Court could have had a full realization of the effects of such a decision. The result of its enforcement would be so manifestly unjust to thousands of honest citizens that we do not for a moment believe there is a chance of its being carried out.

THE MIGHTY PRESENT.

It is difficult for us to realize the greatness of the days in which we live. The contrast between the nineteenth century and the days of Noah and Methuselah is as wide as the East is from the West. What, though the latter old patriarch lived his nine hundred and sixty-nine years, in all that long life of centuries he did not live as much as men live today in a single half score of years. He tended his flocks and ruled his household, and traversed, perhaps, a small territory in search of better pasturage for his sheep, but beyond these limits what did he know of the universe in which he lived?

Take from the world of today the newspaper, the telegraph, the telephone, the steamship and the locomotive; take from it its Bible, its books of science, of literature and of art, and of history; take from it its multitudinous inventions, which have supplanted labor—its printing presses, its steam ploughs, its harvesters and reapers; take from it its machinery for manufactures, its knowledge of chemistry, of geography, of mathematics and of astronomy and geology, take from it its poets, its men of science, its orators and inventors; take away its daily mail and the intelligence flashed along its thousands of miles of electric wires; pull down its vast cities and populate all lands with but wandering hordes of tribal peoples, and we would stand somewhere near the dead level of existence occupied by those to whom a hundred years was but a part of the childhood of a long life of dull monotony and slow advancement.

VACCINATION.

The Assembly Public Health Committee of New York State gave a hearing last week on the Compulsory Vaccination Bill, at which session Dr. Robert A. Gunn of New York produced some very strong testimony against vaccination. He said that he had come to the conclusion, after investigation of the subject for many years, that the belief that vaccination is a preventive of small-pox was a fallacy. During the last 17 years he had examined every case of small-pox that occurred in New York, and in nearly every case where death had ensued he found that the victim had been vaccinated. For 16 years he had refused to vaccinate any person. He said that there were hundreds of physicians in New York city who did not believe in vaccination. The Doctor further declared that he would shoot down any man who attempted to vaccinate him or any child of his. He thought that, instead of making vaccination compulsory, the wisest thing to do would be to appoint a commission to investigate the whole subject.

It is a fact that in the last report of the California Board of Health, it is admitted that the much-vaunted system of vaccination direct from the calf is a failure, and a return is advised to the former dangerous practice of arm-to-arm vaccination, to avoid which the direct system was adopted. At the same time the limit of protection has gradually been reduced from a lifetime to seven years, or even less.

As to compulsory vaccination, such a law would be so clearly in conflict with the spirit of the American Constitution, and the instinctive justice of the American people, that it would be impossible to punish the man who should oppose its execution vi et armis.

THE REFORM SCHOOL.

The matter of locating the proposed State Reform School in Southern California is one of importance to whatever locality may be selected; but it is of more importance to the institution itself to secure just the right location for it. Several sites have been examined, and a number of attractive offers have been made. The commissioners will make a thorough and no doubt conscientious examination of all sites offered, and, we trust, decide wisely, for the best interests of the State and of the institution which the Legislature has wisely made provision for founding. Two essential conditions that will be required in any site that may be selected are good soil and abundance of water for irrigation and domestic purposes. To these should be added a cool and equable climate, shade trees in abundance, if practicable, and reasonable proximity to the seashore. The school should not be located too far away from the city of Los Angeles, from whence, doubtless, a large proportion of its "pupils" will be drawn. It is not expected, we believe, that the site will necessarily be presented. In order to secure exactly what is wanted by the commissioners, a fair price will be paid.

WE have received from J. J. Tobin, Labor Commissioner of California, copies of circulars which the State Bureau of Labor Statistics is now distributing among those engaged in manufacturing, and in all establishments generally where females and minors are employed. All persons referred to should do their best to coöperate with Mr. Tobin, as the objects aimed at by the labor laws are most salutary. We noticed at considerable length the interesting volume recently issued by the State Labor Bureau, which contained a large amount of valuable reading regarding the treatment and remuneration of wage-workers in California, together with pertinent articles on allied topics.

THE following, from the Boston Journal, regarding electric railroads, sounds funny to us in Los Angeles:

The overhead system of electric railroads is becoming more and more popular as its merits become known. At the hearing yesterday before the Board of Aldermen it was evident that a prejudice which existed is fast dying out. It is for the present the most practicable solution of the rapid transit system that has been devised, though there is not much doubt that an electric car carrying its own power will be invented in the near future. At present their weight and the length of time required to charge the storage batteries have been great drawbacks. The overhead system has many advantages over any method of street locomotion yet invented.

THERE is something very faulty in the present system of making Federal nominations. The President is reported as having said recently:

"I am daily criticised in the papers, and even by individuals who call upon me in quest of office, for being slow to nominate men for these important missions. The reason is the simplest in the world. I have not had time. I have been overrun with officeseekers since I arrived in Washington and instead of having the time to devote to the consideration and selection of foreign ministers and other important officials, I have actually spent it all in listening to the statements of delegations and in the purely clerical labor incident to the proper classification and arrangement of applications for office."

FLORIDA claims to have supplied California with 2,000,000 young orange trees since the first of last September. This is one of the things that should not be. These orange trees represent a large amount of money, which should have been kept in this section.

AMUSEMENTS.

AT THE OPERA-HOUSE.—Last night was given the first rendition of Frank Harvey's play, Judge Not. It is a matter as common as it is meaningless for theatrical managers and powers that be to leave the best play in their répertoire until the end of the engagement, and it is a puzzle to guess at Miss Eilsler's choice if a comparative inanity like Egypt, when so good a thing as Judge Not was at her hand; a play whose worst point is its name. The play is of the order somewhat lightly denominated a "society play," which may really mean, and in this case does mean, that instead of a loud and cheap horror, it shows a piece of real life, full enough of woe, and with some share of joy, but of the kind of which our common life is made up. Miss Eilsler is at first a struggling little actress, who gives up a bright career to marry a man who neglects her, and whom she finally leaves in sorrow and righteous wrath. Her embittered life, her success now armed by love, her loneliness, and finally the old love returning to its former dwelling, are most sweetly and delicately portrayed. Orrin Johnson as "Philip Vane," the husband, has no chance to do much except to look remorsefully handsome, and yields the honors of the play to Frank Westen, who, as the mutual friend, is bright, sensible, self-sacrificing, jolly and tender all at once. The rest of the company comes out quite brightly, and have some metal worthy of their efforts.

Piano solo, "Spring Dawn" (Mason)—Miss Hope Warner.

That Quarantine Bill.

Assemblyman James Damron, having received notice that the Quarantine Cattle Bill will be included by the State Printer in the statutes, will go to Sacramento Saturday and endeavor to prevent the printing of the bill. He suggests an injunction to compel the State Printer to omit it from the statutes, and try to have the Supreme Court, now in session, pass upon the matter.

PUT HIS FOOT IN IT.

SUIT AGAINST GOVERNOR WATERMAN FOR $1,000,000.

The Agreement Which He Gave and Then Tried to Crawl Out of—"A Few Pencil Marks" That Are Likely to Prove Costly.

A complaint is being drawn by Messrs. Del Valle and Mundy against Gov. Waterman, which will show the accidental executive up in a worse light than anything that has ever before been laid at his door.

As the story goes, on the 3d of September last Mr. Waterman drew up and signed an agreement to sell to A. McLaughlin of Chicago, through his agent, W. J. Lyons, the Cuyamaca ranch of 21,000 acres, and also the Stonewall mine for $2,000,000.

Mr. Lyons and a syndicate at once went to work to handle the property, and in a short time they found a purchaser, who was willing and anxious to pay $3,000,000 for the property, leaving the middle men a clean profit of $1,000,000. As soon as Lyons and his partners were ready for the deeds they went to the smooth Governor and informed him that his money was ready, and demanded the deeds.

By some hook or crook Waterman had learned that the property could be sold for $1,000,000 more than his contract called for, and, forgetting that there is such a thing as honor among men, he flatly refused to accept the $2,000,000, and coolly informed the purchasers that he would not take a cent less than $3,000,000.

With a gall that would do credit to the Los Angeles Smoothy, he informed the gentlemen that he had never signed the contract to sell his ranch for $2,000,000. The gentlemen could not believe their ears, and were beginning to think the old man was losing his mind, when it dawned upon them that the Governor had learned about the proposed $3,000,000 sale.

The gentlemen did all in their power to convince Waterman that he was bound in honor and by law to carry out his contract, but all to no purpose, for the old fellow saw, or thought he saw, a chance to gobble up an extra $1,000,000.

The squabble has been going on for some time, and has culminated in a suit to compel Waterman to either stand by his contract or pungle over a cool $1,000,000.

The case is dead against the Governor, for they have his contract in his own handwriting, and several letters, which will be used in evidence. The contract reads as follows, and the fantastic style in which warranty and net are spelled proves conclusively that Mr. Waterman is the author:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 3, 1888.

I, R. W. Waterman, hereby agree to sell to A. McLaughlin of Chicago, Ill., through his agent, W. J. Lyons of San Diego, Cal., all my right, interest and title to the Cuyamaca ranch, consisting of 21,000 acres, more or less, and also my Stonewall mine, with all tools, miners' implements, chemicals, etc., sawmill and between 5000 and 12,000 head of cattle, horses and mules, wagons, and everything pertaining to the mine, of which I am to give a good and sufficient deed, but not warrantee, for the sum of $2,000,000, to me paid in hand, nett.

R. W. WATERMAN.

When the case comes to trial there will be some very sensational developments. Waterman claims that he gave Lyons only some pencil marks on a piece of paper, empowering him to sell the property within a 30-day limit. On the other hand, Lyons has the above contract and he says that on March 24th the Governor offered him a commission of $45,000 on the $3,000,000 sale, but the offer was refused, and he will see if the courts will not make the Governor stand by his contract. He also says the Chicago syndicate, who had intended to put a 100-stamp mill in operation at the Stonewall, will stand by him in his suit. Altogether the outlook is favorable for an interesting and long-drawn-out struggle for the possession of this odd $1,000,000.

A General Smash.

A lively runaway occurred on Spring last evening about 6:30 o'clock. A large two-horse team hitched to a wagon was standing on Third street, near the corner, when some one happened to turn the hose on them, which frightened the horses, and they dashed up Spring street at a terrific pace, demolishing in their mad flight three buggies which were standing near the curb along Spring street. The horses were stopped between Fourth and Fifth streets. No one was injured.

THE GRAND TRUNK.

A Hearing Before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] The Interstate Commerce Commission today began the hearing in the case of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, upon the charge of violating the interstate commerce law by granting rates on traffic taken from points in Canada, and by charging less than published rates on such shipment. The information upon which the citation is issued was, at least in part, furnished by the Michigan Central.

Attorney Pond for the Michigan Central said that in the correspondence between Ledyard and officials of the Grand Trunk, now before the commission, it was freely admitted that the company charged the last shippers of coal and coke from Buffalo and Black Rock a rate considerably less than its published rate, which he held to be a direct violation of the interstate commerce law.

Attorney Kerchner for the Grand Trunk denied that any rebates had been allowed shippers on business originating in the United States.

Special rates, however, had been made, he said, with the receivers of coal in Canada, which were in some cases less than the regular tariff rates. He stated that these special rates were plainly stated in the contracts made with shippers. Kerchner contended that this traffic from a point in the United States to a point in Canada did not come within the control or jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The amended interstate commerce act says the provisions of the act shall apply to any common carrier engaged in transportation from any place in the United States to an adjacent foreign country, and it is contended that the proper interpretation of the meaning of the words would be to the "border of an adjacent foreign country," and not "into" that foreign country. Kerchner insisted that it was not within the jurisdiction of Congress to regulate commerce into another country. It might very properly, he thought, regulate traffic from a point in the United States through a foreign country to another point in the United States, or from one State to another, but not into a foreign country. He asked 10 days to file a printed brief, which was granted.

PENSION RULINGS.

Recent Rulings Reversed in the Case of Three Applicants.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] Assistant Secretary Bussey has rendered a decision on the application of John H. Davis for a dependent father's pension on account of the death of his son Samuel, formerly of the Tenth Ohio Volunteers. In 1863 the soldier was regimental hospital nurse at Crab Orchard, Ky. One night, feeling ill, he took a swallow of tincture of aconite, mistaking it for brandy. He nearly died at the time, and never afterward recovered. He died from disease of the lungs and all the vital organs, produced by the poison. A former decision, which held that the soldier's death was not the result of any disability incurred in the line of duty, but the result of his own indiscretion, is reversed and the application allowed.

The former rejections of the applications of William L. Warnick, late private of the First Pennsylvania Light Artillery, and John Derenzy, late of the Twelfth Illinois Volunteers, were also reversed and the claims allowed.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Windom Foreshadows His Policy About Buying Bonds.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] The action of Secretary Windom today in rejecting $2,931,400 offerings of 4½ per cent. bonds at 108⅛, 108¼ and 108⅜, is regarded at the Treasury Department as indicating his purpose of not paying over 108 for these bonds for the present at least. It is believed that Secretary Windom will outline his policy in the matter more definitely in a few days.

RUSSIA WILL RELEASE HIM.

The Secretary of State has been informed by the United States Charge ad interim at St. Petersburg that due action has been taken at the request of this Government for the liberation of Herman Kempinski, the American citizen arrested December 24th, in Poland, on a charge of having evaded military duty in Russia, of which country he was a native. There are features in this case that make it probable that a favorable answer may soon be returned by the Russian Government.

An Aeronaut's Daring Feat.

QUINCY (Ill.), April 4.—Harry Leroy of Decorah, Iowa, ascended in a balloon here today to an altitude of about 4000 feet, and then descended in a parachute. For the first few hundred feet of the descent the drop was as usual, very rapid, but the parachute soon became fully expanded, and circled gracefully toward the earth, finally landing the bold aeronaut half a mile from the point of ascent, none the worse for his trip.

Iowa Settlers Resisting Eviction.

FT. DODGE (Iowa), April 4.—The posse of Deputy Marshals who went into the country today to make evictions from river lands met vigorous resistance from settlers, and returned tonight without having made any arrests or evictions. It is presumed they will gather an additional force and return to the charge tomorrow. The settlers threaten armed resistance, and the situation looks rather threatening.

High Prices for Thoroughbreds.

WHEELING (W. Va.), April 4.—W. K. and Charles Brokunier of this city have sold their two thoroughbred horses, Wheeling Wilkes, by George Wilkes, for $10,000; and Ed Mahell, by Onward, for $10,000.

A GANG OF FIREBUGS.

How They Operated in Jersey—Their Leader Arrested.

JERSEY CITY, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] Bernard Blume, leader of a gang of firebugs who has been fleecing insurance companies, was arrested in this city. The method of the gang was to rent a store, put in a small stock and obtain a heavy insurance. When preparations were made for an incendiary blaze a lamp would be broken. Near it were placed bladders filled with benzine. Around the bladders was a circle of gunpowder. A slow fuse was used to ignite the powder, which exploded the bladders, and like a flash the place would be ablaze, leaving no trace of the incendiary work except a broken lamp to deceive the insurance people. Occupants of the store would be absent attending a social gathering at the home of one or other of the conspirators to prove an alibi. Blume was located, and between the mattresses in his room were found 23 bladders. The gang are Anarchists, and belong to the Chicago band.

The men were arraigned in Hoboken today. They pleaded not guilty and were remanded without bail until Monday. The men were very nervous while in court. Information about these men was given to Justice Naehr by a man named Frederick Schwertfeiger, of Hoboken, who admitted having been a member of the gang. The Justice at first did not believe the story, but when he heard that the gang had made preparations to burn a house in Harrison, a suburb of Newark, N. J., last evening, he telegraphed the Newark police. A dispatch from Newark stated that powder had been found in the place referred to.

Suicide of a Clergyman in London.

A Doubtful Rumor in Regard to Explorer Stanley.

Russell's Rhetoric Again Exerted in Behalf of Parnell.

Emperor William Issues an Order on the Loss of the German Fleet at Samoa—Foreign Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

LONDON, April 4.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Rev. Charles Sumner Hurd, lately of the Parmenter-street Unitarian Chapel, Boston, committed suicide by taking opium on Sunday. Last week Hurd wrote Rev. Stopford Brooke, asking pecuniary assistance, which the latter promised.

At the inquest today a letter from Hurd to Brooke was read. It concludes: "The sole way by which I can escape my difficulties is through the gates of death. I am the most unlucky mortal on earth. Give my body to a medical school for dissection."

The jury rendered a verdict of insanity. Brooke will not allow the body dissected and will defray the expense of burial.

BOSTON, April 4.—Regarding Rev. Charles S. Hurd, whose death by suicide is reported from London, it is learned that he left New York, March 15th, for London on business for the Northern Pacific Railroad, by which he had been employed for several months in writing a book descriptive of Washington Territory. His brother, S. C. Hurd, resides in Malden, Mass., and believes that the theory of suicide is groundless. The deceased was a young man in excellent health when he left home and with excellent prospects. He had been troubled with nervous pains, and had been in the habit of taking morphine to relieve them, and it is believed, by his brother, that his death was due to taking an overdose. Word was received of the death on Monday, and instructions were at once cabled, but there was nothing in the dispatch about suicide. Mr. Hurd's pastorate with the Parmenter-street chapel terminated in 1887.

RUSSELL'S RHETORIC.

Continuation of His Argument for the Parnellites.

LONDON, April 4.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Sir Charles Russell continued his speech in behalf of the Parnellites, and explained the constitution and objects of the league. He said that of the persons constituting the executive of the league, only five are connected with secret organizations. The league's appeals were based upon the necessities of farmers, and were entirely constitutional. They were intended to guide farmers in their distress. Parnell and his followers had been villified and misrepresented like Bright and Cobden were in the early days of their reform movement.

Sir Charles Russell said the prominent members of the league were in favor of boycotting, which, up to a certain point, they considered justifiable. He held Parnell was not liable, criminally or otherwise, unless he was a party to murder and outrage as a part of the agreed objects of the league.

EXPLORER STANLEY.

A Doubtful Story About Him Told by Arabs.

BRUSSELS, April 4.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Advices from Stanley Falls state that Arabs have arrived there who report that Henry M. Stanley and Emin Pasha were heard from. They were marching toward Zanzibar with several thousand men, women and children and 6000 tusks of ivory.

The Arabs who brought the news of Stanley and Emin arrived at Stanley Falls in February. They claimed to have seen Stanley several months before that time.

LONDON, April 4.—Sir Francis DeWinton, president of the Emin Bey Relief Committee, doubts the story concerning Stanley and Emin which was brought to Stanley Falls by Arabs. Supposing that Stanley reached Emin at Christmas, Sir Francis thinks the story brought by the Arabs has traveled too quickly to be a fact. He considers it more likely that it originated in a discussion of Emin's projects.

The Emperor expects that the confidence in the navy which has been so successfully developed will remain unshaken, and that the devotion to duty displayed by those who perished will serve as a bright example to the whole navy, which in the future, as in the past, will work for the welfare and glory of the fatherland.

Preparations for Celebrating the Centennial of Washington's Inauguration—Southern Pacific's New Director Coming South.

SANTA BARBARA, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] Three Santa Barbara prospectors have returned from the black sands placer gold mines near Lompoc and report that the mines will be valuable now that a contrivance for saving 90 per cent. of the gold has been invented. The whole beach has been taken up by miners. The sand is black and highly magnetic, and the gold is very fine. The miners get $22 an ounce for it. A Santa Barbara company has been formed under the name of the Blacksands Mining Company, to work a claim of 7500 feet on the beach.

BASE-BALL.

The Sacramentos Take a Game from the Oaklands.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] The midweek games at the Haight-street grounds were inaugurated today by a game between the Oakland and Sacramento clubs. The game proved a considerable success. Hopeman occupied the box for the Sacramentos, and was perfectly supported at every turn. Many difficult chances were accepted, and the boys batted freely, especially Veach and Jayne, who rapped out doubles. The Oaklands were first to the bat, and succeeded in scoring two runs through the aid of Hardie's two-bagger. They failed to score again until the eighth inning, when two more of the Black Stockings managed to cross the home plate. Umpire Sheridan convinced O'Neil that he was not running the game, and fined him $10 for loud and unbecoming coaching and for refusing to desist when so ordered.

Score: Sacramentos, 7; Oaklands, 4.

A Question Raised as to Two Important Legislative Acts.

SACRAMENTO, April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] It having been stated that the act appropriating $350,000 for the erection of an insane asylum in Southern California and the act appropriating $100,000 for the support of a State mining bureau were invalid, owing to the omission of the words "out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated," the Controller says he is making an examination of the matter, and will probably soon be in a position to know whether he should draw his warrants.

BOOTH BETTER.

HIS DISORDER INCIPIENT PARALYSIS.

Too Many Cigars the Cause of His Trouble—He Stands the Trip to New York and Will Soon Play Again.

By Telegraph to The Times.

ROCHESTER (N. Y.), April 4.—[By the Associated Press.] The condition of Booth is much improved. He was visited today by Dr. Sumner, who found him able to speak quite plainly. Booth breakfasted in his room.

Dr. Sumner was interviewed, and said: "Booth is feeling a great deal better today. I did not consider his condition last night alarming. I found he sustained a slight shock of paralysis, which prevented the power of speech. The paralysis affected the entire left side. It was thought at first the attack would pass away in a few minutes. His condition was indeed pitiful as he lay there in the dressing-room looking appealingly at Barrett and myself, unable to speak a word. I think with a rest of a week or ten days Booth will be able to keep his engagements. Last night's attack, however, is a premonition of what is bound to come. I think within a few years Booth will suffer a final attack."

Booth's manager, Arthur B. Chase, said: "I have no doubt the immediate cause of his attack is excessive cigar smoking. Booth smokes 20 strong imported cigars a day and frequently uses a pipe. I think he will smoke fewer in the future."

Booth, accompanied by his valet, left this morning for New York. In reply to inquiry from Detroit, he instructed Manager Chase to say he would meet his engagement in that city week after next. Barrett has determined to keep the Booth-Barrett engagement. Lawrence Hanley will probably take Booth's parts.

DETROIT, April 4.—The statement that Booth would play here is an error. Manager Chase telegraphs that Barrett only will be here.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Edwin Booth, with his valet, reached the city at 7:30 tonight. Mr. Booth's physician met him at the depot with a carriage. Booth was in good spirits, though a trifle weak, and did not seem to feel the long ride from Rochester. The doctor said, after examining the great tragedian, that he has suffered a partial stroke of paralysis, which was undoubtedly due to excessive smoking. He directed the patient to remain indoors and enjoy quiet and rest for a few days. He thought Mr. Booth would be able to resume his engagements.

HEAP BIG CHIEF.

General Moore, Chief of the Los Angeles Tribe of Indians.

[Santa Clara Corr. San Francisco Examiner.]

A conspicuous figure in Mexican Gulch was Gen. J. Guadalupe Chueco (the Crooked). The General stands six feet high in his sandals, and was neatly attired in a pair of brown overalls, a gray shirt and a long-tailed coat that had once been black, but that was now of a rich mustard color. He spoke excellent Spanish, and announced himself as the Chief of all the Indians in Lower California, from the northern border to Cape San Lucas. He was accompanied by Juan Debez, a San Bernardino Indian, and by two barefooted Indians of his own tribe, who claim to be 105 and 107 years old respectively. They all stood in front of the American store waiting for a drink.

After the General had extolled his virtues to the Hon. John T. Gaffey of Los Angeles, the three Indians, who seemed to act in the capacity of affidavit men, exclaimed: "Es el verdad; y mas." (It is the truth, and more.)

Mr. Gaffey introduced Col. Walter S. Moore of Los Angeles to the General as "Gen. Moore, the chief of the Los Angeles tribe of Americans." Gen. Chueco was greatly pleased. He took off his hat and tucked it under his left arm, while he grasped Gen. Moore's right hand with a vise-like grip. Gen. Moore had had his hair clipped close to the scalp by Mr. Gaffey on St. Patrick's day at the Real de Castillo, but Mr. Gaffey had left a ridge of hair down the middle of the General's head like the top of a Greek helmet.

The Indian's admiration and respect increased tenfold on being informed that the most notable generals in California, including Frank Pixley, wore their hair in this fashion as a mark of distinction.

"It is a custom very rare, indeed," remarked the Indian.

"Si, pues," said Gen. Moore.

Juan Debez caught Mr. Gaffey by the elbow.

"Convide al General tomar un trago," he whispered (invite the General to take a drink).

Mr. Gaffey took the hint and General Chueco and his affidavit men filled their glasses to the brim with mescal.

Railroad Notes.

The following clippings are from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat:

It is reported that the Louisville and Nashville will make a fight in the courts against the interstate law. The story is that a leading official of the road, at a recent meeting of the board of directors, asserted that under the law the company was losing, and would continue to lose, a large amount of money. In his opinion the bill was unconstitutional, and the courts would so declare it. He wound up by asking permission to disobey the law in order to make up a case, and the directors gave their assent.

Theodore Welch of Montgomery, general freight agent of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, is being urged for the vacancy on the Board of Interstate Commissioners, caused by the resignation of Commissioner Walker. Mr. Welch is a Republican.

NO EXPERIMENT.
A company of Chicago, Los Angeles and Riverside capitalists are now planting out a choice strip of land in the Santa Clara Valley with orange trees. This land is located at "Scapa," fifty-four (54) miles from Los Angeles, on the Southern Pacific Railroad. The soil, climate and surroundings approach nearer to the famous Riverside orange tract than any other portion of the State.
The trees now there bearing fruit are clean, free from all insect pests, and their fruit perfect in every particular.
There are still one hundred acres of choice orange land that will be sold at one-half the schedule price, and trees furnished at cost for planting out. Arrangements can be made to have them cared for at actual cost till the bearing period.
This opportunity is open till the trees are all planted. After that the land will be held at schedule price and the value of trees added.
Terms of payment are very liberal. So favorable an opportunity of owning a choice orange grove at a low price, in a good neighborhood, cannot be met with every day. The man who decides quickly will get the best.

PASADENA NEWS.

FIFTH ANNUAL CONCLAVE OF POMOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

The Railroad Gathering—The Circus—A Heathen Robber—Pomological Notes—A Social Time—Local and Personal Mention.

PASADENA, April 4.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The fifth annual meeting of the Los Angeles County Pomological Society was held in this city today. The morning session opened at 11 o'clock in the vestry-room of the Universalist Church, to a very small attendance, notwithstanding the fact hundreds of strangers were attracted into the city by the circus. The agricultural industries of this county are yet in infancy, but enough of good words were brought out today by the few able speakers to show the county was capable of producing fruits and vegetables equal to any country in the world.

MORNING SESSION.

A few minutes after 11 o'clock, president of the meeting, Thomas A. Garey of Los Angeles, rapped for order, and when silence was obtained, delivered the opening address, in which he demonstrated the benefits of membership in an order of this kind, and the good work which could be accomplished by such a society if properly organized. He was followed by Rev. E. L. Conger, who delivered the address of welcome. The speaker welcomed the assemblage in an address of eight minutes in length, mentioning that the work of the society was for the advancement of the race and man's material benefit.

The following resolution was introduced by President Garey and adopted:

WHEREAS, the Los Angeles County Pomological Society has held two annual fairs in Los Angeles city, which have been an eminent success as an exhibit of the resources of Southern California; financially, these expositions have not been a success; the material interests of Southern California are promoted by these annual fairs, therefore be it

Resolved, that the society do hereby authorize the holding of the third annual fair in the city of Los Angeles during the month of ——, 1889, provided the holding of the fair is contingent on the expenses of the exhibit being fully guaranteed by guarantee notes, and further,

Resolved, that a committee be appointed at this meeting to canvass the districts for subscriptions to the guarantee fund.

The next five minutes was assigned to Hon. Hiram Hamilton of Orange, who gave the response to the address of welcome previous to the reading of the above resolutions. In the course of his remarks the speaker said: "We must get back into the practical idea to make these meetings eminently social ones."

The reports of the several officers were next heard, and unfinished business called for. After new business had been transacted, an adjournment was taken for lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock with an instrumental solo by Miss Lloyd, followed by two selections by a local quartette.

President Garey then announced that he thought it would be a good idea to unite with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in the building of a suitable hall for fair purposes, and that the money could no doubt be obtained by private subscriptions. He urged on any present who were non-members to enlist themselves on the roll of the society.

The reading of a paper on the "Resources of Los Angeles County" by N. Philbrook was closely listened to. Mr. Philbrook, in the course of his reading, showed the many advantages in the floral kingdom, and in conclusion gave a résumé of the many plants, flowers and varieties of fruits which thrive well hereabouts, and the many uses sterile or uncultivated soil could be put to in having planted in it a growth of sumac, which, the speaker said, had many uses. The reading of the paper was opened for discussion, and N. G. Yocum arose and said he was raised in a country where tobacco was a curse, and for the sake of humanity and God, he hoped the culture of that weed would be suppressed. H. N. Rust said the weed could not be raised here advantageously and with a degree of profit, and never equal to the tobacco grown in Virginia or Wisconsin.

A gentleman who occupied a front seat said his home, in a town in Pennsylvania, was covered with tobacco factories and breweries, but notwithstanding his opposition to the culture of tobacco he admitted it was a good destroyer of insects.

At this point of the discussion, F. M. Hovey of this city gave many reasons why lemons should be grown in this county. Reference was first made to the exports of this fruit from Sicily and Spain and its import value, which was of sufficient inducement to recommend its growth more largely on this coast. A great mistake here has been made in the selection of the soil, as is seen in many places throughout this southern country. The only kinds worth cultivating were the Eureka, Lisbon and Genoa varieties. Irrigation of the trees, careful pruning and the care of this fruit were some of the features of the address which seemed to enrap the closest attention of everybody. The preparation for the market was shown at considerable length and if the speaker's remarks and practical experience was worth anything at all, his advice if followed would yield large returns from lemon trees now growing but uncultivated. Mr. Hovey concluded his remarks by an illustration with several branches and samples of fruit from the lemon tree. A general discussion was opened, but the subject was such an important and interesting one, that the speaker was recalled shortly after he had started for his seat.

The discussion was taken up again, and many of the rural gentlemen asked for further information in regard to their successful growth, and in particular the irrigation of the fruit. The Chair then took the floor and informed his auditors that millions of dollars could be made from lemon culture, as the curing of them was no more a secret of the past. The question, said he, was one worth discussing for a week, as there was money in the culture and irrigation was not needed to any extent. The speaker closed his remarks by suggesting that Mr. Hovey be waited upon to read a paper at the next meeting on the culture of the fruit. Mr. Smith's suggestion was then [illegible]

eft to the health. The speaker said he had squeezed lemons in a glass three or four times a day for the past two years, and swallowing the fluid had been greatly strengthened in health. The discussion was concluded by a few remarks by Byron O. Clark, Messrs. Barber, Rice, Fuller and others, as to the marketing and grading of the fruit.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening session opened at 7:30 o'clock with music, followed by the reading of a paper on "Hen Fruit Experience" by D. Edson Smith. After its discussion, Mr. Smith read another paper on the subject of "Small Fruits." In substance he said that a much larger use of these fruits as a part of the daily meal would lessen the doctors' bills, and that the guava, strawberry, blackberry and raspberry seemed to be the most desirable for general cultivation. The method of procedure to plant these fruits and their varieties, tastes and preparation for the table, as ticklers for the appetite when soaked in cream, were many of the points brought out. After a discussion of this subject, the place of the next meeting was decided upon, handshaking was in order and the fifth annual meeting adjourned.

POMOLOGICAL NOTES.

The circus seemed to detract a great deal from the attendance in the meeting.

The music by the quartette, composed of Messrs. Kyle, Thayer and Mrs. Ellenberger and Mrs. Clapp, was very much appreciated and finely rendered.

The officers for the new year will be: President, Thomas Garey; vice-president, H. Fuller of Alosta; secretary, D. Edson Smith, and treasurer and entomologist, H. Hamilton.

The committee to solicit subscriptions for the holding of the next fair is composed of Thomas Garey of Los Angeles, Harrison Fuller of Alosta and C. Edson Smith of Santa Ana.

The display of citrus fruits, showing what proper culture can do, was greatly admired as it lay before the eye in the broad dishes on a table near the entrance door.

About thirty ladies were noticed in attendance at the afternoon meeting.

H. N. Rust, Esq., of South Pasadena, was a conspicuous person present at the afternoon meeting.

The discussion of the raising of tobacco in this section seemed to have struck a snag. The temperance element predominated.

The discussion on the culture of lemons was the best thing on the programme. The general opinion seemed to be that the sales of the fruit by auction yielded the best prices.

A PLEASANT GATHERING.

A very pleasant gathering was held last evening at Marceline ranch, given by Miss Gertrude Tuttle to a number of her most intimate acquaintances. A good time was spent in solving the mysteries of euchre and in innocent games. A fine lunch served to appease the inner man. Among the ladies present were the Misses Cann, Pillsbury, Grace Cann, James, Tuttle, and Messrs. Dean, Barrett, Cawley, Pike, Guy and Jones.

A CHINESE THIEF.

Ah Fung, a rancher by occupation and a dweller among the coolies of Chinatown, took a vacation today to witness the circus. This afternoon he wandered up toward Mountain avenue, near the residence of Mrs. Armstrong, and a half hour later was a prisoner in a solitary cell of the calaboose. It appears that a watch and chain belonging to the lady had been left carelessly laying on a small table in the parlor of the house. Mrs. Armstrong had taken a nap, and when she arose to look for her jewelry, found it among the missing. A Chinaman was seen loafing around the house, and as soon as the loss was discovered suspicion was aroused, and the heathen, seeing it directed toward him, fled for his life toward the city. He was run down by the Marshal, who had mounted a horse to make sure of his game. The Chinaman, when interviewed at police headquarters, denied all knowledge of the affair, treated the matter lightly, and walked off with the officer with apparent coolness. This is the fifth case of robbery at this residence within two years.

THE CIRCUS.

The circus of Sells Bros.' gave two performances here today to fair business. At 10 o'clock a short street pageant was witnessed by over 4000 people. The bookings are for Santa Ana, Riverside, San Diego, Bakersfield and Los Angeles, followed by a tour north as far as Washington.

SLIMLY ATTENDED.

The meeting of certain property-holders on the alley through which it is proposed to build the new rapid transit railroad, and the Council was called for 7 o'clock this evening. At that hour two Councilmen, Attorney Polley and two owners of land were found present. The small attendance seemed to indicate there was but little opposition to the building of a road through the coveted alley or else those interested were at the circus.

LOCAL MENTION.

The Boulevard Committee went to Garvanza this morning and inspected the road along the route. Steps were also taken to arrange for a meeting of the denizens of the surrounding county, at an early day. The location of a proposed bridge was also looked after.

Does It Pay?

Three-fourths of our people are troubled with dyspepsia or liver complaint in some form or other, which by nature of the disease has a depressing influence on the mind or body, preventing them from thinking or acting clearly in any matter of importance. Indigestion, coming up of food after eating, dyspepsia, sick headache, acidity of the stomach or any derangement of the stomach or liver (upon which the whole action of our system depends) are speedily and effectually overcome by the use of Green's August Flower. The most stubborn cases have yielded to its influence, as thousands of letters received will testify. The immense sale of this medicine is another guarantee of its merits (over a million and a half bottles sold last year). So we ask, will it pay you to suffer from any of the above diseases when you can have immediate relief in the August Flower? Three doses will prove its worth. It is sold by all druggists and general dealers in the world.

OCEANSIDE TIDINGS.

A RUNAWAY MARRIAGE—DEATH OF A PIONEER.

An Election to Vote on Water Bonds—A Newspaper That Fills a Long-felt Want—Effects of the Gold Craze in Lower California.

OCEANSIDE, March 31.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Oceanside has been treated to a small sensation in the way of a runaway marriage. It seems that last fall when the railroad company had a work-train here, among the gang was a young Mexican by the name of Costea. At this time Miss Mabel Cutler was acting as librarian at the Oceanside reading rooms. Through a third party Costea formed the acquaintance of Miss Cutler, and for some months the young fellow spent all of his evenings at the reading rooms. Miss Cutler has been an invalid or nearly so ever since she was 5 years old, and was considered by her parents weak-minded and very easily persuaded. Costea's attention to the young lady soon became common talk and came to the ears of the young lady's mother, who immediately took her daughter home, and in talking to the girl she admitted that the young fellow wanted her to marry him, but that when in his company she could not refuse him, and as he had threatened to take his own life unless she consented to marry him, she had promised to do so, though she did not love him. Things remained in this state until one week ago last Saturday, when the mother was away from home for the day, some persons, who had ought to have been in better business, got the girl away from home, and the couple met at a neighbor's house. The young fellow was prepared with a license, and Justice Frazer was sent for, and on being informed who the parties were promptly refused to marry them.

Later on in the day they found a minister, but he, too, declined. However, after being informed that if he would not perform the ceremony, they would take the train and go where they could be united, after some hesitation, and to prevent the latter, he performed the ceremony. And it was not for some time later that the mother was informed of the affair. Her grief and lamentations were truly touching. If the girl was a strong, healthy girl, there would in all probability be nothing said against it, but under the circumstances the parties who helped the thing along are condemned, and the young lady and her family have the sympathy of the people.

Morton Weitzell, one of Oceanside's pioneers, died last week. Mr. W. has been confined to his bed for many months, and was a great sufferer. Something like a year ago he had a stroke of paralysis, and since that time has had two more. Mr. W. came to Oceanside nearly four years ago, from Kansas, and built and opened the Pioneer drug store. His family soon followed him, and when his health began failing, sold the store and invested in other city property, which is today among the best and most valuable in the city. He leaves a large and sorrowing family to mourn his departure, and who have the sympathy of the whole community.

The city is dull, and no concealing the fact, but we have not lost hope.

An election is called to vote bonds of $15,000 to encourage our water works, something very much needed.

The Oceanside Herald, nee the San Marcus Herald, under the able management of Brother Martin, is a live newspaper, and is filling a long-felt want. Just a newspaper, and is meeting with good success.

The South Oceanside Diamond has been removed to Oceanwave, and leased to Mr. Peebles.

Our town came near being depopulated during the gold excitement, but our miners have all returned, sadder, but wiser men. C. L. Morrill and his partner succeeded in finding some good quartz mines, and Mr. M. soon goes to San Francisco to get a 10-stamp mill to send down to Mexico. G. W. Reece will probably go down to set up the mill and run the engine.

No one can conceive the amount of new ground there is broken and seeded without a trip to the country, and I think it would be perfectly safe to say that the farmers have at least four times the amount of acreage in this year that ever was planted before. Crops are looking fine, and such pasturage never was known—wild oats, alfileria, etc., everywhere and in the greatest abundance, and stock is rolling fat. The latest report from the big flume is that last Monday there was 81,000,000 turned over in New York to the company, and we expect soon to see the dirt fly.

The storms of the winter have scattered the lumber and piles of the wharf company all along the coast. They have men now at work gathering it up preparatory to going to work again.

Fishing from the wharf is all right again and crowds spend the day there enjoying the sport. Yours truly,

OCEANSIDE.

Sherman a Bad Man to Stir Up.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The Star has this story about Senator Sherman tonight: "The fighting spirit is inherent in the Sherman family," said Capt. W. H. Michael, clerk to the Senate Committee on Printing. "In the neighborhood of 1852, when John Sherman, then a lawyer of some repute, visited Iowa City, Iowa, on business connected with the United States Land Office, things were rather crude out there, but the place possessed at least one decent hotel—the American House—and here John Sherman put up. Among those who were there when the Buckeye lawyer arrived were Sam Kirkwood, afterward Governor of Iowa, and since then Secretary of the Interior, and Zeke Clark, now a wealthy banker. They all dined together one day, and while thus engaged a sneak-thief stole Sherman's beaver hat and 'lit out' in the direction of the setting sun. The theft was not discovered for some time, but when it did become known there was a commotion. Kirkwood and Clark immediately assumed the role of detectives, and in a little while they found that the thief had left town on foot, and on a certain trail. A one-horse wagon, with the necessary horse, was at once chartered, and, accompanied by the hatless lawyer, Kirkwood and Clark started in pursuit. The thief was overtaken near Coral mill, Sherman took possession of his beaver, and when the precious headgear had been safely placed in the wagon he turned upon the rascal and thrashed him most unmercifully. The Senator has the same spirit in him today. He's a bad man to stir up."

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to the following persons: A. E. Proctor, aged 30, and Jennie Underwood, aged 19; Wallace A. Whitlock, aged 25, and Etta E. Beane, aged 20; John W. Wesley, aged 26, and Sarah Stewart, aged 30; Joseph Bromberger, aged 26, and Hannah Pinte, aged 24.

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock Officer Jenkins arrested a man named Francisco Aconia, on Aliso street, and locked him up, charged with robbery. Aconia, it seems, knocked a man down Wednesday and robbed him, after which he made off, but was afterwards fully identified and taken into custody.

Sheriff Aguirre and Deputy Billy Hammill went out to the Laguna ranch yesterday after an insane man, who was brought in by them about 7 o'clock last evening and confined in the County Jail. The lunatic is a man about 25 or 30 years of age, a tall, thin, sandy-haired individual named Fred Waldeck. He is a victim of bad habits.

J. H. Wetherill, the frisky terpsichorean artist from Kansas City, who, after playing himself out in this city, went to Pasadena, has departed for parts unknown, according to the Star, "leaving sundry creditors wailing, among whom are Mr. Morgan and Mr. Hurndall." The Star facetiously adds that Prof. Wetherill has a light, fantastic toe."

Last night, about 9:30 o'clock, ex-Detective Metzler brought a couple of tough, looking young men into the police station, where they were taken into the back room and examined at some length, after which they were locked up on "suspicion." They gave the names of James Guy and John T. Myers. One of the men had $29, a watch and chain, and a couple of silk handkerchiefs in his possession.

Some of the railroad conductors on the Olive-street line are badly disgruntled over the withdrawal of the monthly passes hitherto issued to them, which enabled them to ride free when going on and off duty. All who live within a few blocks of the barn are expected to walk, and passes are issued only to those who live some distance away. The new rule is said to bear especially hard on some of the extra men, who make only a small sum each day, and cannot afford to pay fares.

The Fact Must Be Impressed.

The fact must be impressed upon even the most casual observer, that there must be a vast amount of merit in the management of a company which can year after year make such a record as has been made by the Equitable Life Assurance Society. No intelligent reader should fail to notice its last annual statement, which we publish in this issue; and those who have, or are likely to have, others dependent upon their work, should, and doubtless will, take a keen interest in it. The following are some of the important items: Assets, $95,000,000; surplus, nearly $21,000,000; annual income, $26,000,000; annual disbursements to policy-holders, $12,000,000; new business, $153,000,000; assurance in force, $540,000,000.

"The Robert Elsmere craze is over possibly, if some of the good pastors of this city would fire off a few more philippics against its unholy tendencies the craze might be resurrected, otherwise good-bye Bobby."

Is is the same with the Story of an African Farm which, by the way, is one of the most unusual works of fiction going, and would be a great loss to well mannered children if the "meeting house" class of divines had not preached against it, and revealed its dirty details to their innocent congregations.

CONSUMPTION

And all the various diseases of the

HEAD, THOAT AND CHEST,

Including the Eye, Ear and Heart, specially treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS,
M. D., M. C. P. S. O.,
Hollenbeck Block, corner Second and Spring streets, Los Angeles, Cal.

CONSUMPTION.

The early symptoms of this disease are a sense of weariness upon little exercise, a disposition to remain passive and idle, a peculiar sensitiveness to the effect of cold, and a shortness of breath upon moving quickly or ascending a hill or stairs, a slight, hacking cough, with or without expectoration, flying pains throughout the chest or back, or under the shoulder blades. The symptoms are so set toward or during the night; slight fever in the afternoon; cold feet and hands, and, in many cases, blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger nails.

The more advanced symptoms are wasting of flesh, diarrhœa, chills and fever, night sweats, expectorations of yellow pus from the ulcers or cavities in the lungs, with or without a depression in the chest, increasing weakness, and at last a closing up of the air passages of the lungs, causing strangulation or suffocation of the patient for want of power to expectorate the mucus from the lungs.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONSUMPTION.

By this we mean tubercular or blood consumption. It is a disease inherited from our forefathers presenting itself in the form of tubercles, which appear in the lung tissue proper, and not on the mucous surface, a fact the local kind. The tubercles at first consist of a cheesy substance, in yellowish friable masses after which they form small granules like millet seed, bluish-white and semi-transparent. Later in the disease this morbid matter becomes diffused uniformly throughout the tissues

Constitutional consumption is a common form of lung disease. The progress is slow, but, if left to itself, no less sure. It usually begins with a dry cough. The cough used to be, and is still, by many, regarded as the cause instead of the effect. The real cause is the tubercles in the upper part of one or both lungs. In the early stage of the disease these tubercles are exceedingly minute, the patient not at all suspecting their presence. Gradually they develop into more active disease, and then follows the train of symptoms which leaves no doubt as to its true character. Sometimes spitting of blood or slight streaks in the mucus is the first indication of tubercular deposits, or it may be chilly sensation in the back, followed by more or less heat in the palms of the hands, or an afternoon flush on the cheeks. The slow and gradual inroads of this form of consumption leave the stomach and appetite undisturbed for a considerable time. Finally, however, hectic fever and night sweats supervene, preceded by diarrhœa. Then the loss of flesh and strength becomes rapid, the chest contracts, the features sharpen, the eye attains an unusual brilliancy, and the patient begins to realize that he is in the last stage of confirmed constitutional consumption.

Heretofore the treatment of consumption has been very unsatisfactory, alike to both the physicians and their patients; but, luckily, since the discovery of the Æreanor inhalation system of practice, a few years ago, thousands of cases have been completely cured, where, had it not been for this system of practice, utter failures to combat the evils of the disease would have continued up to the present time. This system is recommended by the highest authorities, both in Europe and America. By this means, we are enabled to dissolve the hardened mucus in the lungs, ease the cough, facilitate expectoration, contract and heal ulcers and cavities, after all hope of cure by the ordinary method is past.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedy at home, as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless the disease has advanced to the chest and that both lungs are seriously involved. The inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus, and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success. The very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but, if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address
